Art & Design

Democracy	The Rule of Law	Individual Liberty	Mutual Respect & Tolerance
Through their art education, children are given opportunities to have their say about what they create such as when choosing which materials and medias they use.	In their art lessons, children will use a range of materials and tools when creating their artwork. They learn to follow rules safely when using these materials and tools and understand how to keep themselves and their peers safe. Some of the art projects that children encounter involve following clear steps and processes to achieve an end goal. This mirrors and reiterates the importance of children following rules and procedures in their daily life.	Children are encouraged to take ownership of their own artwork. They also have the freedom to express their own artistic ideas, whether through choice of medium or technique. Children have the freedom to choose their own style of artwork and are encouraged to make independent decisions and express themselves creatively.	Through their art lessons, children explore a variety of different cultures, allowing students to learn about and respect different traditions and artistic styles. Children are encouraged to praise each other's artwork and show respect for the efforts and creativity of their peers.
